SERMONS FOR DEMOCRATS, BY TIMOTHY SPINTEXT.

GENESIS XIII-8.

And ABRAM said unto Lot, let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdsmen and thy herdsmen, for we be brethren.

Certainly, says the Jew, the advice of Abraham is worthy of the highest approbation, relations should always live in peace, and the same good doctrine has always from that, to the present day been inculcated by all our lawgivers, priests and prophets; we all acknowledge Abraham for our father, and are every where known by the general name children of Israel, consequently each of us considering that intimate connexion, is ready to repeat this excellent precept, "Let there be no strife among us for we are brethren."

True, very true echoes the Mahometan; believers, adorers of Alah and servants of his prophet ought never to nourish a spirit of contention. Their hands should ever be united, and their sabres raised only in defence of their religion and the destruction of infidels. We are indeed the sons of the divine Mahomet, and approvers of the precept of Abrain, which the mufti also ever enjoins in the spirit of the prophet, saying, let there be no strife among us for we are brethren.

Who ever doubted the truth of it? asks the Christian, in a tervor of zeal. It is not only the opinion of Abraham the father of the faithful; but the absolute command of a greater than Abraham. Good will to man was proclaimed by the angels, when they announced the birth of the Saviour. Love one another was the precept of JESUS and it has been enjoined and enforced by all his apostles, teachers, preachers, and Christians from that time until the present moment.

Were an inhabitant of a neighboring world, totally ignorant of his history, permitted to visit this earth and hear the above declarations, would he not immediately be led to exclaim happy! happy human family! Sprung from one stock, ever right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then mindful of your relationship ye delight in will I go to the left." giving, and receiving all those common benefits which flow from peace, friendship, and unity. How delightful is it for a benevolent mind thus to hear you all with one voice repeating the advice of the good old patriarch. "Let there be no strife among us for we be brethren."

Of all the books in the world, said my grandfather, none has been so ill-used as the bible. All consult it, and make it speak just what they intend. If the plain letter will not do, it is translated anew. If that will not answer the end, the meaning is allegorical, or it is typical, or a proverbial expression; and so by one way or another it is at last brought either to confirm the advanced opinion, or at the most to say nothing on the subject. The above advice a common reader would be apt to conclude abundantly evident; but let us examine these three great sects just mentionedand the truth of the above remark will appear abundantly evident. When the Jews in all their strength invaded the seven nations of Canaan, had one of these men devoted to destruction, urged the advice of Abraham, and in the most supplicating posture, said let there be no strife between me and thee for we be brethren, what would have been the reply? If the Jew would have staid to reason at all, which with me is rather doubtful, may we not justly suppose it would have been in such language as the following? "Presumptuous wretch!darest thou say, that I am thy brother? -Thou art no better than dross or dung. The world was made for Israelites, and thou art doomed to perish. It is true we Jews are all brethren, but thou reptile die

—to thee there is no peace. In like manner the Mahometan denies the universality of the relationship, though we are brethren, say they, it extends no farther than the family of the faithful, and with the residue of mankind strife, war, and bloodshed is not only permitted, but a duty. And are we Christians more liberal in our application of the advice? In translating the words, we find the original vis more comprehensive than the words in our bibles—thus: Let there be no strife between thee and me, and between thy herdsmen and my herdsmen, for men are brethren. On reviewing our history for the last 1000 years, will it not appear evident that practice has been in direct contradiction to my text? Precept said, love plied it is false, ravage, hum, anslave de- g ellef of that entertainment, which the former stroy-ye are no kin. Precent still willing to prove the point, declared of one blood God made all nations of men-Practice boldly gives Precept the lie and protests with oaths and asseverations that the black never sprung from the same stock, is only a species of brute, but one remove above the monkey and therefore fit only for galling slavery, drudgery and torture at the will of the enslaver. But giving up the general use inculcated in the text, let us give it a particular exposition.

I hree fourths of the evils, disconfents, bicker. ings & gnarrels which disturb the peace of Sciety would be annihilated if the yielding, conciliating temper of Abraham were found among us. We admit we are breihers, whence then thefe evil formafings? "Facle malevolent speeches! These unfriendly aftern? These stories destructive of good lame? Is this indeed the way to prove that we are brethern? Let us peep inta families, liften to the quarrels of brothers and lifters conducted, with acrimony and not feldom ending in hatred.

View the inhabitants of the same village, mark their envy, their little jealousies, their constant fear less in any transaction their neighbour may succeed better than themselves and would not every benevolent mind in grief exclaim, and would to God that here dwelt the conciliating spirit of Abraham!

Aid among you to whom in particular these sermens are addressed, tell me, is this spirit found? Let each member look into himself, then, into your meetings, and it will evidently appear that ye er i y only a small portion of the spirit of the patriarch. Beho'd what a spirit of dissention, contest for office creates! You see parties oppos. ing parries, " we are brethren," forgotten, or disregarded; enmity seizing the place of affection; party spirit driving union of sentiment to the wall, and public good hard pressed to maintain her stand against private emolument.

Remember, my friends, I can and therefore will is not confident with the spirit of the text. Abraham could have easily compelled Lot to accede to iny conditions he faw meet; but his benevolent spirit rose infinitely superior to paltry motives terminating only in private interest, He feit for their herdfnien as well as for his biother. He connects them in one term, "we men are brethrer." And although he might have had the choice of the land, yet he gives it up with almost inimitable grace. "If thou wilt take the left hand then will I go to the

To conclude ; remember I befeech you, that by imitating the patriarch ve will cause peace to relide in your families, happiness and a reciprocity of good offices in your villages; confidence, union and a friendly intercourse of sentiments, produdive of the general good, in your meeting; and finally ye will demonstrate that not only your language, but what is infinitely more, your practice, daily pronounces this excellence advice, " Let there be no frife I pray thee, between me and thee, or between my berdsmen. and thy berdsmen, for MEN ARE BRE THREN."

TIMOTHY SPINTEXT.

ON CARDS.

A FRAGMENT.

WE had passed our evening with some certain persons famous for their taste, their learning, and refinement: But, as ill-luck would have it, two fellows, duller than the rest, had contrived to put themselves on a level, by introducing a game at cards. It is a sign, said he, the world is far gone in absurdity, or surely the fashion of cards would be accounted no small one. Is it not surprising that men of sense should submit to join in this idle custom, which appears originally invented to supply its deficiency? But such is the fatality! imperfections give rise to fashions! and are followed by those who do not labour under the defects that introduced them. Nor is the hoop the only instance of a fashion invented by those, who found their account in it; and afterwards countenanced by others to whose figure it was prejudi-

I intimated the old allusion of the bow. that acquires fresh vigour by a temporary relexation.

He answered, this might be applicable, provided I could shew, that cards did not require the pain of thinking; and merely exclude from it the profit and the pleasure. Cards, if one may guess from their fish ap pearance, feem invented for the use of chi'dien and, among the toys peculiar to infancy, the bells, the whiftle, the rattle, and the bobby hoife, deserved their ff are of commendation. Pre- part of their lives, had recourse to this smulecept enjoined, let there be no strife among ment, as what recalled it to their minds. A men; for men are brethren. Practice re- knot of villians encreased the party; who, re.

feemed to draw from cards, confilered then in a more ferious light, and made use of them as a more decent substitute to robbing on the mi, or picking pockets. But min who proposers themselves a dignity of character, where will you find their inducement to this kind of gime? Perhaps replied I, your men of wit and fancy may favor this diversion, as giring occution the the crop of jest and wittierfin, which naturally enough arifes from the names and circuntances of the cards.

NATCHEZ, March 4.

A melancholy circumstance took place last light at the Pive Ridge on the Pine Grove Plan. to tion. Between the hours of 2 and 3 the gia was observed to be in fire in all directions, in much so, as to render fruitless any exection of Mr. Parkinson and the negroes to save it. Sixty thousand weight of cotton in the seed is suppose ed to have been consumed by the devouring ele. ment, the wind from the northward blowing very fresh. However we are happy to say, by the attention of that gentleman, who kept thene. groes on the alert, the dwelling house and the negro cabins, tences, &r. (all counting again to the gin;) no further damage was sustained. It is supposed, from a variety of circomstances, that fire was intentionally put to the building, and that this foul deed was executed by a person in the neighbourhood. Will not the avenging hand of heaven wing the swiftest arrows of retribution on the fiend that could thus dianolically rob five innocent orphans of their substance.

The Editor of the Herald is authorised to offer a reward of five hundred diffars, to any person who will prosecute to conviction, the perpetrator or perpetrators of the above horrid and villainous act.

Information has been received from New Orleans, that several attempts have been recently made to set fire to that city. Governor Claiborne has issued a proclamation offering a reward of 500 dollars for the detection of the incendi-

Confifency.- No word in the political vocabulary, has been more abused, or abused to worse purposes, than this consistency. By the dupli city of defigning, and the folly of weak men, it has been raised to a rank in the scale of virtues, far above its deferts. It is in itself, neither lau. dable nor blame worthy. Confiftency in virtue is enhanced merit; corf. frency in vice is aggravand crime. But, at prefent, like some quack's noffrum, it has passed through the alembic of party, and become an universal panacera. How. ever diseased may be the head or beart of any luckless partisan, if he apply but this fovereign remedy, he is restored at once to pristine political vigor.

"STICK TO YOUR PARTY AT ALL EVENTS!" this is a maxim, which, rigidly practifed on, woold form a despotism more terrible than the tyranny of Henry VIII, a Louis XIV. or a Bonaparte. It would require not merely " non telistance and passive obedience," the highest pretentions of the detected tyrant who abdicared the Phrone of Britain, but an exercion of faculties in direct contrariety to feeling, opinion, and principle.

In one lense, the word confistency may defig. nate an important virtue. Taken es a firm, un deviating, unwavering attachment to principles believed to be just, as a zealous, conscientious, and honorable conftancy in the pursuit of mea forces believed to be expedient, it is of the first importance, and claims the highest approbation. No man can despise more heartily than we do, the political weathercock, who waves with every wind of interest, and torns with every goft of Pilion. No one can more cordially detek the jority must be always right. In truth, none trumpet to loudly the virtues of confiftency, as these time serving gentry. None censure more severely a diffent from the voice of the multitude, as an inexpiable crime. The following ex. tract from an oration by Janothan Roffell, Eq. depicts in glowing colours the fallacy of this pretended virtue.

" Let us love TRUTH!-Let us feck it with is a fincere and fing to heart. It will reward the " foarch, it is great, ammulable, and eternal. "The fugitive falfehoods of the moment shall or perith; porty and pall on may write their names " upon the plaster; but this shall one day moul. der, and Truth amain torever inferibed up. " on the marbie. But mistake not for TRUTH, " that confiltency which conflicutes the mock " virtue of the present d y. In the pursuit of " this prepotterous virtue, the committen o " ones fault often makes a thousand others ne " ceffiry. The unfortunate min who has com " mitted it must not allow he has erred; be " maft not claim fauctuary in the charity of " his kindred men; but he must leave the spirit to adopt a fystem which shall vindicate the " infallibility of his head though at the facil "" ace of every am able quality of his heart; and "impelled by the power of confidency, he must " piels onward, though like the Leming, he marks his course through life by a right line " of deltruction. But TRUTH, though it never " changes, never erromit thines with a mild and equal little; it breaks through the clouds " of ignorance and barbarity—it dispels the " emanations of vice and folly-and like the " Sun, diffusing light and j y, it goes on for-" ever rejoicing in its to. f !" National Agis.

Soon after the e' di n of M . I fferf n to the Presidency of the United States, the Farmer sli. as attorney Gen. as is supposed, under the im. immediate auspices of the Prelident, set out in revolutionize the fentiments of the good people of Massachutetts, thra' the medium of a paper called the National Ægis, which was edited by one Francis Blake, but with his Ægis and Mammoth Powers, he has not been able either to Bield himself from the open attacks of the fed reliffs, or their fidious blows of the democrats. he, therefore, unable to fight their battles or make converts to his doctrines, has at last published his dying speech, which he concludes in the following words.

" For more than two years, I have been in ceffantly affailed by the whole phalanx of fede. ral ferible s; from the great Goliah of their party down to the feeblest stripling who could wield a pen. I have stood the shock of their united exertions-I have partially abandoned the duties of an honorable profession, to zi. in de. fending the government, against an outrageous and vindictive enemy. I have not rushed into the battle like a Soldier of Fortune, for I expect. ed neither boner not emolument from the con.

As I encouraged no delinave hopes of profit from enterprize, in this, therefore I have not been disappointed. As I was prepared for my full portion of Federal obloquy, my anticipations on this subject have been completely answered. If I was foolish enough to flatter myfelf with a ny thing like Republican grarifude for my exer. tions, I have learnt wildom from experience, prudence from misforture, and humility from dilap pointment, FRANCIS BLAKE. Worcefter April 4.

The following paper which appears by some means to have come into the possession of Dessalines, has been officially published by him at Cape Francois. We have translated it and now insert it in the Gazette. at the request of a friend, for the purpose of shewing that the abominable cruelties and oppressive tyranny practised at Port au Prince and other parts of French possessions in the West Indies, were confined to the general officers-and that the subordinate officers and soldiers ought not to be implicated in those enormities. (Gaz. U.S.)

REPLY OF THE COMMISSARY COLBERT, GENERAL ROCHAMBEAU,

UPON THE QUESTION, "What is the present situation of Port-au-Prince?."

How easy it is to fulfil the task which you have imposed upon me!

You call for particulars respecting our situation; you believe that it is time once more to remedy the evils which oppress us, and you are ignorant that our distress is increasing while I write; you are ignorant that the only effectual remedy to lighten the weight of our evils is in the overthrow of this very organization which gives you the supreme power. The government alone, the public functionaries, and above all the generals charged with the defence of certain parts of the colony, ought to be considered as the prime movers of the afflicting events which insure our destruction: The Cause the mejority must always rule, that the ma. to apply to it some alleviation, ought to re. of these usurpers. Such is I affare you, the l cotton rags.

for the zeal which you will display in repairing your own faults and those of your predecessors, who have been guilty of attrocities which I cannot repeat without violating the delicacy which I wish to observe towards you, and without recalling to my memory some dreadful recollections. But a multitude of examples, as unhappy as they are incontestible, convince me that the language of truth, and of violated humanity will be grating to your ear, accustomed to the incense which certain vile courtiers lavish upon you, and far from flattering myself with a speedy melioration of our Orleans, and several other respectable chacondition, in giving you any details respecting our situation, I fulfil a duty which my place as governor [administrateur] ren- confined in prison there. About the 12th ders sacred to me. You will find, from day of May, 1802, we left Nassau for this, the real situation of the magazines of Muskegee, in the schooner Favorite, rethis place, which are as destitute of provisions as the overseers employed for that and with Governor Halket's verbal permispurpose are of the necessary talents and probity. I have taken care to distinguish the consumption authorised by our neces- which had been piratically taken and carrisities from that usurped by the commanding generals, the heads of the administration, and above all the commandant of the mouth of that river, two Spanish gallies place who combine together to drain our took possession of us, under pretence of resources for the gratification of their sen- enquiring into the nature of our voyage carsuality and prodigality.

You will easily judge of he provisions and imprisoned every person. which remain to us, of their duration, and of the future fate which awaits us, unless we make the most vigorous efforts to relieve ourselves. I could fill pages, and still you would know but a very small part of the dilapidations and the open and unheard of robberies which the principal representatives of the government commit with impunity.

Reco lect the fums of money, the provisions and commodities which you unjustly placed at your own disp fal at the time you let this city; deduct from the remainder the necessary expen. ces and the infamous robberies, the urgent con. fumption and the enormous dilappidations, which have already been made, and it will be easy for you to calculate how we exist.

The fending of flour and provisions might, it is true, prolong our wegetation, and enanable us to hold out some time longer; but as to rendering ns happy! Oh, how vain the project! Reforms and changes mult be made in proportion to the gratitude. abuses which have hitherto existed. I do not fie k of those who would particulary require your care and management; but I aim at your repre-

The generals Sarrazin & Lavalette, who com. mand this division do not possess the qualities requifite to merit from the inhabitants and others, that confidence which you have lost fince your promotion. Selfishness the most cruel, and ava. rice the most fordid are the only objects which at. tract their attention. Impositions as numerous as unjust, requisitions without number are not fufficient to fatiate their unbridled poffions, which no fooner expire in the arms of wealth and vigor; but the most facred rights of humanity are trampled under foot, by depriving the in habitants of fruits and other nourifament which they fearch out and collect at the utm ft has zard. Many die of hunger, while the generals are lavish of the most delicious dishes.

Union and the most perfect harmony between the inhabitant and the foldier are the only means of braving the dangers which threaten us, and of overcoming enemies to form dable as thof which divide us within and affinit us without. Every step of the generals has tended only to difunite the two parties, to oppress the inhabitant and to excite the discontent of the soldier. at the moment when death and defertion are greatly reducing our forces; veffels are daily dispatched, and passports are written and delivered for the departure of the inhabitants and public officers; but instead of removing the women and children and infirm men destitute of the means of subfistence, these privileges are granted to in dividuals who offer fums of money proportionate to their estates; these large sums are destined to fecure the same oportunities to the generals in a moment of danger, which to far from dreading they actually invite; and the officers and fol diers, the officers of health, and those employed in the administration are groaning in poverty, and dragging out their existence in the most. dreadful milery. Of all the public officers the commander of the place Paniffe, is the man who pursues with the greatest zeal and intelligence, the interests of these worthy generals. Every day he distinguishes himself by some new crime, and every day is marked by new attrocities.

The sub-prefect, principal of the administration, prefides with general Lavalette, under commission denominated de fiège; but instead of prescribing any vigorous measures for the pro. motion of public fecurity, or watching over the execution of the laws, they conspire in devis. ing means to enrich themselves, without the danger of detection. They repose in the em braces of a young Creole, who by her lewd and lascivious caresses, obtains the most distinguish ed favors for the most unworthy objects.

Behold I Citizen General, the representatives of your authority ! Judge by them of our fiture De Lician who changes his party, as he changes interest which you seem to take in our si-lis coat, for convenience; and believes that be- tuation, and the desire which you manifest errors in oblivion, punish with severity the crimes vive my hope and to become my vouchers earnest prayer of all shole who entertain fends. ments of probity and of devotion to the country which the generals have profcribed.

TO THE EDITOR.

SIR.—We are desirous through the channel of your paper, to return our graveful thanks to Governor Claiborne of Newracters of that city, for their benevolent and zealous attention to our situation when gularly cleared out at the Custom-House, sion, for the purpose of recovering from General Bowles the value of a schooner ed into Apalachicola river. On the 1st of June, being in St. George's sound, at the ried us with our vessel to New-Orleans.

We remain confined without any trial until the 26th September last when Feeman Johnson was unfortunately enough to e'u e the vigilance of his guard. The reft remained until the 26th of January last, when the city being delivered up to the American Government, His Excellency Governor Claiborne, General Witkinson, Daniel Clark, and James Profit, Elq. and feveral other gentlemen, humanely and promptly interfered and procured our release from a most cruel and illegal confinement. Mr. Profit had been out fleady friend and affifted us from the early part of our imprisonment ; but neither his friencship, our rights as Englishmen, nor our tedious suffering availed with the Span in officers.

Rejected and unnoticed by Governor John Halett, to whom application had been made repeatedly in vain, we should in all probability have still remained in confinement, but for the humane interference of the gentlemen abovemen. tioned. And we request the Printers of the U. States will infert this as a public testimony of our

Patent Corn Shelling Machine. By virtue of authority in me placed by Th mas Burnham, one of the proprietors of the Corn Shelling Machine, invented by Paul P. fbury of Newbury, State of Maffachuletts, I now offer for fale in the State of Virginia and that part of the District of Columbia west of the Potomac, the exclusive right to construct, and authority to use, and vend to others to be used, this simple but very valuable Machine.

I will fell a right to conftruct a fingle one, or I will fell the ight for any county in Virginia, fo low as to make it an object to the purchaser. It possesses every property most desirable in a Machine, fuch as durability, expedition, simplicity and so little labour in working it, that two men may eafily shell one hundred bushels per day. It takes so little from the cob that the corn does not require fanning as in the common method of shreshing.

Millers and Farmers who have large quantities of this grain to hell will find it much to their advantage to work this Machine by a horse or by water, as one might be constructed at a small additional expence to shell one hundred barrels per 184 day. Any person wishing to see the performance of this Machine may be gratified by applying either at Wm. Hardhorne's Store in Alexandria, or at his Mill three miles from town.

ROBERT HARTSHORNE. Description of the Sheling Machine. IT confiits of a wooden frame for the cylinder to work in, 3 feet 5 inches long, 2 feet 7 inches in height.

A cylinder 24 inches diameter, and 17 inches long, of white oak, fet with small iron teeth to project out about 3.8 of an inch, intersected within 1 1-8 inch of each other to shell the corn with as the cylinder turns round.

A Gudgeon passing through the centre of the Cylinder for it to turn on, made of wood or iron.

A Crank to turn the Cylinder with, made of wood or iron. A femi-circular bottom under the Cylinder, made with wooden flats, fet with small iron teeth, interfected like those in the Cyfinder; the flats fet fo far apart as to let the shelled corn fall through in o the receiver below.

A flat piece of wood placed at the top of the frame at one end to conduct the ears of corn in at one fide of the Cylinder, which being shelled, the cobs pass out at the other fide. The fide where the ears enter is half an inch wider than that where the cob is discharged.
